an era in his intellectual life. If T add *i-n +^₀« .1

I could impart, but I am alwayf SusteTby co±Sn when I enter society, and little inclined to tllk »£f £T never get anything in return, I do not ; think fn* t?

derstand, jealous of him Jomp«* ^frt 5S ' v ls> -1 un" nevertheless not easily find a rival f, * V °U?? g°Ut^ will I met him at Genera? Phipp l^L ySTLfh^?- ^ mankind into those who waiw^ + ⁄ ' and he divided dinner and those 47^1^ to ^J*^ ap?6tite for their

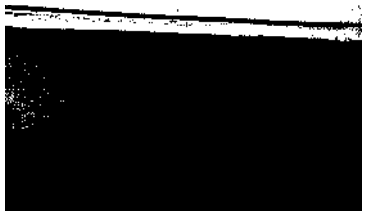
A¹ Y^^Sto^^

? ^

to that of others. When I ^p! f <a^omS my o indeed I was nervous and haTse5f on fii^ ^ con^ited J intend in future to act entire!^ I™ ™ enCe °^ b^ fits-Jave an unerring instinct T 1 7 ^^7 own impulse. I few men can dfçe?ve ^"" ^ ^U J:.ea/ -characters at a glance j It is a revolutionary miud I^T^i 1S + Y°*ti^tai mind!

of our English society ie oo7 M> Tlle fixed character

h

ideal amb ition


3tic